

A Success Story...

Capital Humane Society

A big and beautiful bloodhound named Sonny stole the hearts of many while at Capital Humane Society. Sonny's friendliness and large howl for attention made employees want to stop and give her some affection. She was a lost dog that was never reclaimed by the owner. Shortly after we started caring for her, employees discovered a small mass. We wanted to go the extra mile for this big sweetheart. So, Capital Humane Society decided to have the mass removed and biopsied. We crossed our fingers and hoped for the best! The results came back a few days after surgery and it was determined that the mass was benign. It was the longest two days of our lives. The news of her results made our entire day, and then some. Sonny has been adopted and her new family is so lucky to experience her fun-loving personality day in and day out. The surgery that Sonny had to undergo was expensive, but it was well worth it. We want to thank our staff and volunteers for giving this canine friend the extra care that she needed while staying with us. It is their dedication that helps us to accomplish our mission of caring for animals. And, it is the dedication of donors that allow us to "go the extra mile" in cases like Sonny's!
